Classroom Etiquette: Questions are encouraged. Please feel free to ask questions at any time of the class period. If you have a different approach, if you have a different understanding, a point you don’t understand etc.

Tentative Exam Dates:
Exam I: February 22, 2010
Exam II: March 22, 2010
Final: TBA

Assessment:

Grades will be determined using the scores from the following assignments:
At the end of the semester, the letter grades are going to be determined according to a curve.

Exam and Homework policy:

Note that we grade only what you write and we do not grade what you think. Therefore write each step of your solution clearly and do not skip any step.

Homework: There will be weekly assignments. I will assign a set of homework each Friday (Check course page Wednesday Night.) and it will be due next Friday in recitation hour. No late homework will be accepted for any reason. Any assignment not turned in on time will receive a zero. To allow for unexpected absences a few of the lowest assignment scores will be dropped.

You are encouraged to discuss homework assignments with your classmates. However, write your own solutions and use your own wording.

You should write very neatly. If your handwriting is not readable, use a word processor. Your TA may refuse to grade your homework if it is not clearly written and you will get 0 as grade. It might be a good time to learn Latex.

Attendance:

Attending and participating in every class is crucial to your success in this course. Although there is no penalty for not attending to one class, a student absent from class bears full responsibility for all material covered and announcements made in class. Also note that class participation worths 10 points.

Cell Phones, & Laptops : Please turn these off or set them on silent mode. No laptop please.

Announcements

Check your e-mail and the class webpage daily. Any kind of information related to homework, cancelation of classes etc. will be emailed and/or posted online.

Academic honesty  Cheating is wrong. Cheating hurts our community by undermining academic integrity, creating mistrust, and fostering unfair competition. The university will punish cheaters with failure on an assignment, failure in a course, permanent transcript notation, suspension, and/or expulsion. Offenses may be reported to medical, law, or other professional or graduate schools when a cheater applies.

Violations can include cheating on exams, plagiarism, reuse of assignments without permission, improper use of the Internet and electronic devices unauthorized collaboration, alteration of graded assignments, forgery and falsification, lying, facilitating academic dishonesty, and unfair competition. Ignorance of these rules is not an excuse.

Report any violations you witness to the instructor. You may consult the associate dean of student affairs and/or the chair of the Ethics Board beforehand. See the guide on “Academic Ethics for Undergraduates” and the Ethics Board Web site (http://ethics.jhu.edu) for more information.

Students with Disabilities

If you are a student with a disability or believe you might have a disability that requires accommodations, please contact Dr. Richard Sanders, in Student Disability Services, 385 Garland, (410) 516-4720 or studentdisabilityservices@jhu.edu. If you need special accommodations please inform me two weeks before exam. Also check the following website for further information.
