

“The rate of increase in the unemployment rate is decelerating at a constant rate this month. This increasing rate would be negative were it not for the rate of increase in the influx of new workers and workers who have previously left the market re-entering the workforce.”